

NEARING NAPLES: World Urban Forum 6 Summer Dialogue Series

The National Building Museum
401 F Street NW
Washington, D.C. 20001

This summer, in anticipation of the Sixth World Urban Forum (WUF 6) in Naples in September 2012, the National Building Museum will host a series of dialogues chaired and organized by a network of cross-sector US urban policy stakeholders.

Each session focuses on one of the four designated WUF 6 dialogues and serves as a run-up to the Forum in Naples. A light lunch will be served.

Thursday, May 24, 2012, 12-2 PM:
Rethinking Urban Planning and the Future of Cities: An Interactive Forum

Monday, June 18th, 12-2 PM:
Equity & Prosperity: Distribution of Wealth and Opportunities

Monday, July 16th, 12-2 PM:
Productive Cities: Competitive and Innovative Cities

Monday, August 13th, 12-3 PM:
Urban Mobility, Energy & Environmental Sustenance

The National Building Museum, UN-HABITAT, HUD's Office for International & Philanthropic Innovation, Habitat for Humanity and our partners invite you to attend the dialogues. At the end of the summer, a cumulative report will be published to summarize the four sessions and draw parallels to forthcoming events at WUF 6.

To RSVP for the dialogues, please visit The National Building Museum's site.
